Foreword

The play opens on a plot of ambition, youth, and learning. The setting is Owosso High School. The cast of characters numbers over twelve hundred students. There is a mood of casualness and friendliness throughout the drama. Photography samples the members of the cast in their varied activities and attitudes. Atmosphere is established by the tragicomical expressions of the actors and actresses. Local color is provided by the incidental and unstaged: the faculty at work, an open textbook, yell of a crowd, the slam of a locker, a bounding ball. Members of the cast revolve in a world of their own, a world of extra-curricular activities, studies, and fun. The audience for the performance is you—the reader. Let the curtain rise on a presentation of the school year 1958-59.

*To a wonderful friend. Remember
the tennis courts?
We were to have a ball, well have to go out sometime
(not Thursday)
Good luck always

The last bell rings, and quiet descends on the library and its occupants.

The Play Begins

Our play of Owosso High School 1958-59 begins; rural students descend from their buses; lockers are popular places to gather and talk, primp, and, of course, get books; and the library becomes a very important part of school life once more.

Sue Smith and her friends gather at her locker for the final word before the last bell.

As the second bell rings, the halls are immediately flooded with students.

Mr. Blood greets the student body on the first day of the play.

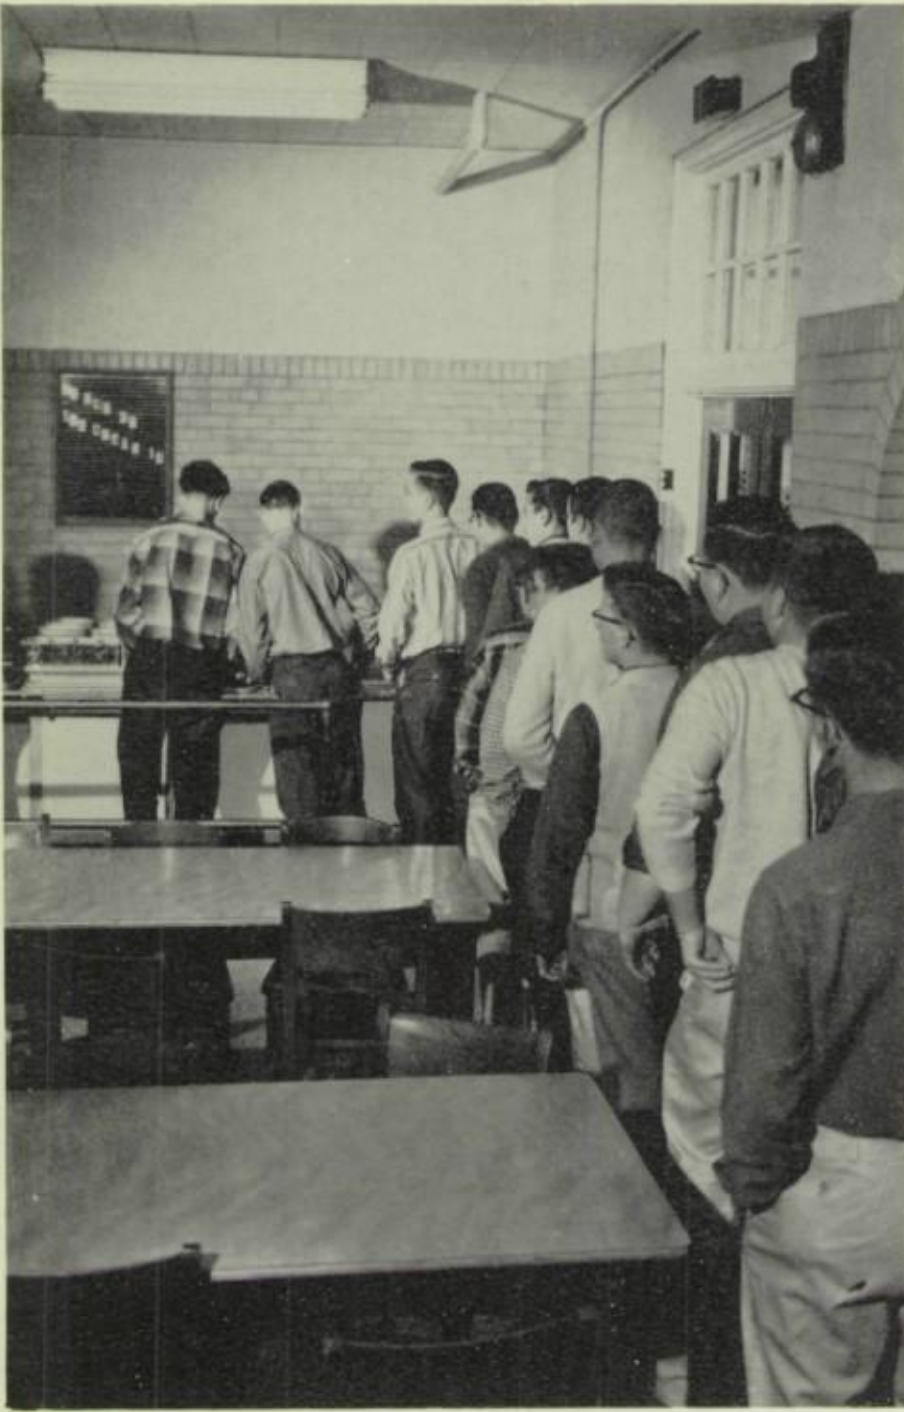

Janet McAvoy reads the notices at the beginning of third hour.

Behind

Hungry students have to be fed, the halls and rooms kept clean, and help is needed to keep track of over one thousand students.

The cafeteria line fills up as the students rush from third hour classes.

Day custodians Walter Hinze and John Boyd rest on the stairs.

The office workers run errands and do other odd jobs for Mr. Blood, Mrs. Gebhart, Mr. Capitan, and the Guidance office.

The Scenes

To keep the stage clean we need janitors; they keep everything not only clean but also repaired. The bookstore sells books for learning and pleasure, and the many library workers are a help to students and faculty.

Night custodians Lucian Gregoricka and Karl Lyter.

Nancy Confer gets ready to do practice driving in one of the driver training cars. Lisle Abrams, Driver Training Teacher.

Mrs. Boulee takes over for Mrs. Lee in the bookstore.

Administration

The play cannot go on without producers and directors. These are our administration and faculty. They try hard to make the play of the Owosso High students a success. A free interchange of ideas, a friendly relationship—these both help to make each performance the best. With such expert backing and teaching, the actors and actresses of Owosso High School have every chance to become successful.

Student Guidance

To prepare the student for his role in the play is the function of the guidance department. Sixteen teachers assist as counselors under leadership of Mrs. Minnie Gebhart, Assistant Principal. Each student is assigned a counselor for four years according to his course of study. These advisors plan with the student his course of study, help him with his failures, give him vocational information, and assist him with any personal problems upon request.

Mrs. Nevius helps June Hodge plan her schedule.

Mr. Bouck advises Bill Began about his schedule.

Vocational Guidance

Bridging the gap between the high school and the field of industry, the Co-op program offers the high school student an opportunity to earn while he learns. Over fifty students are enrolled in this program and are serving apprenticeships in many business places throughout the city.

Mr. Irving Holtforth — director of the Co-operative Training program

Mr. Holtforth hands Charles Berthume his working permit.

John Woodworth and Mr. Wenzlick, his supervisor, inspect the parts of electric motors at Redmond's.

These juniors and seniors spend half of the school day working in local business firms.

Student Council

President
RICK HORN

The student council has worked on many projects this year. The Annual Homecoming was a big success, the talent assembly was enjoyed by everyone, the Safety Club was recognized. A Traffic Committee worked keeping the parking lots and the main stairways clear.

Principal Blood measures Dave Clark for his Senior cap.

Mr. Montgomery, former biology teacher, interests budding scientists.

Mr. Lee demonstrates a new addition to his printing department.

Mrs. Gebhart pauses in checking the new schedules.

Seniors

The play is nearing its completion, and the call has come for the final curtain--graduation. From the wide-eyed zeal of orientation to the quiet dignity of this final scene, each student has played many varied roles. For some the play will continue through college; for others the reality of life will begin. The final act of high school is over, but the drama of life has begun.

Underclassmen

Every member of the theater from the call boys to the understudies looks forward to the day when he too will play the leading role. Many years of hard study and preparation on the script await him before he can assume that position. However, time passes quickly; and soon he will find a star on his door.

Talent Assembly

Assemblies

SPIC Assembly

Pep Assembly

Activities & Class

The building of the set today represents the foundation of the acts of the play for tomorrow. Just as the activities, clubs, and committees from the social life of the student, the various classes from art to math, from music to science combine to form the foundations for the well-rounded student. Only by hard work in building the set can the final act be produced with polish.

Science and mathematics are very important parts of the role of a great scientist to be.

Kay Hahn and Paula Elkins work on an important Chemistry experiment.

Bud Wilkinson, Hartley Hermanson, and Andy Mollema examine bones in Biology Class.

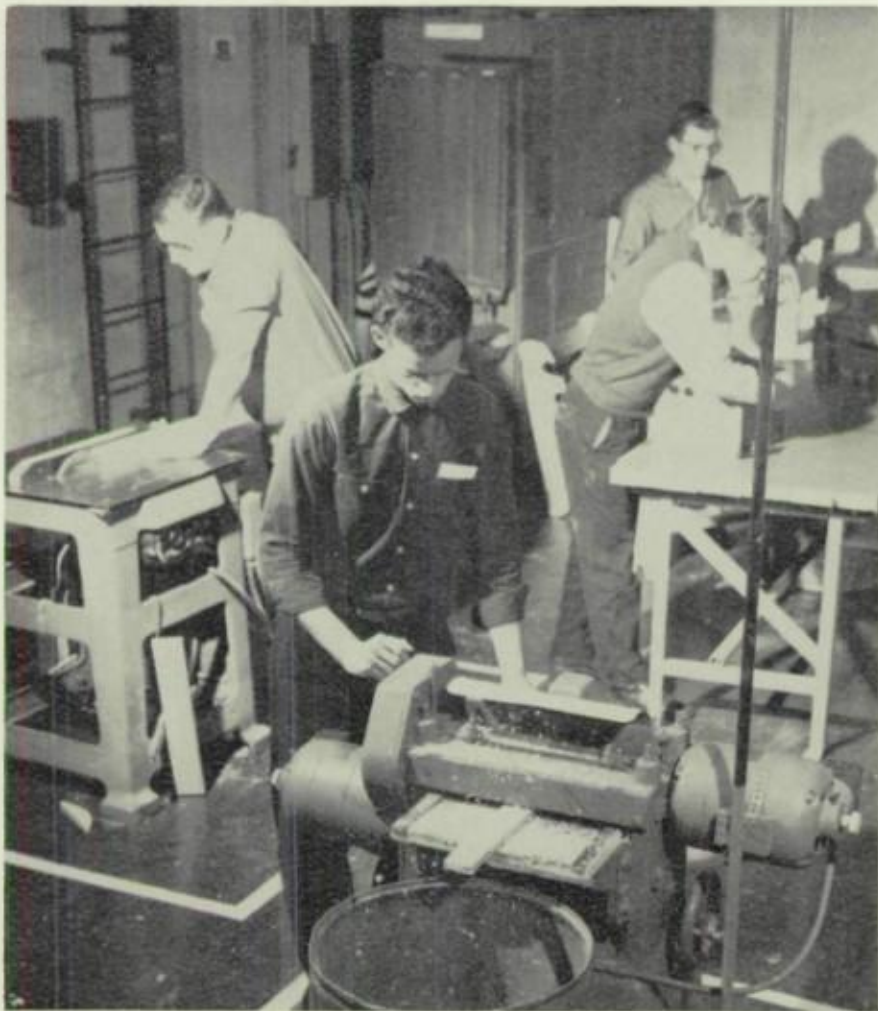

Mike Bisard and Beverly Phillips prove a theorem for the class in Geometry.

Larry Hozak, at the board, is showing a pattern in Mechanical Drawing.

Shops and Agriculture Classes help young men learn skills to use on the farm and at home.

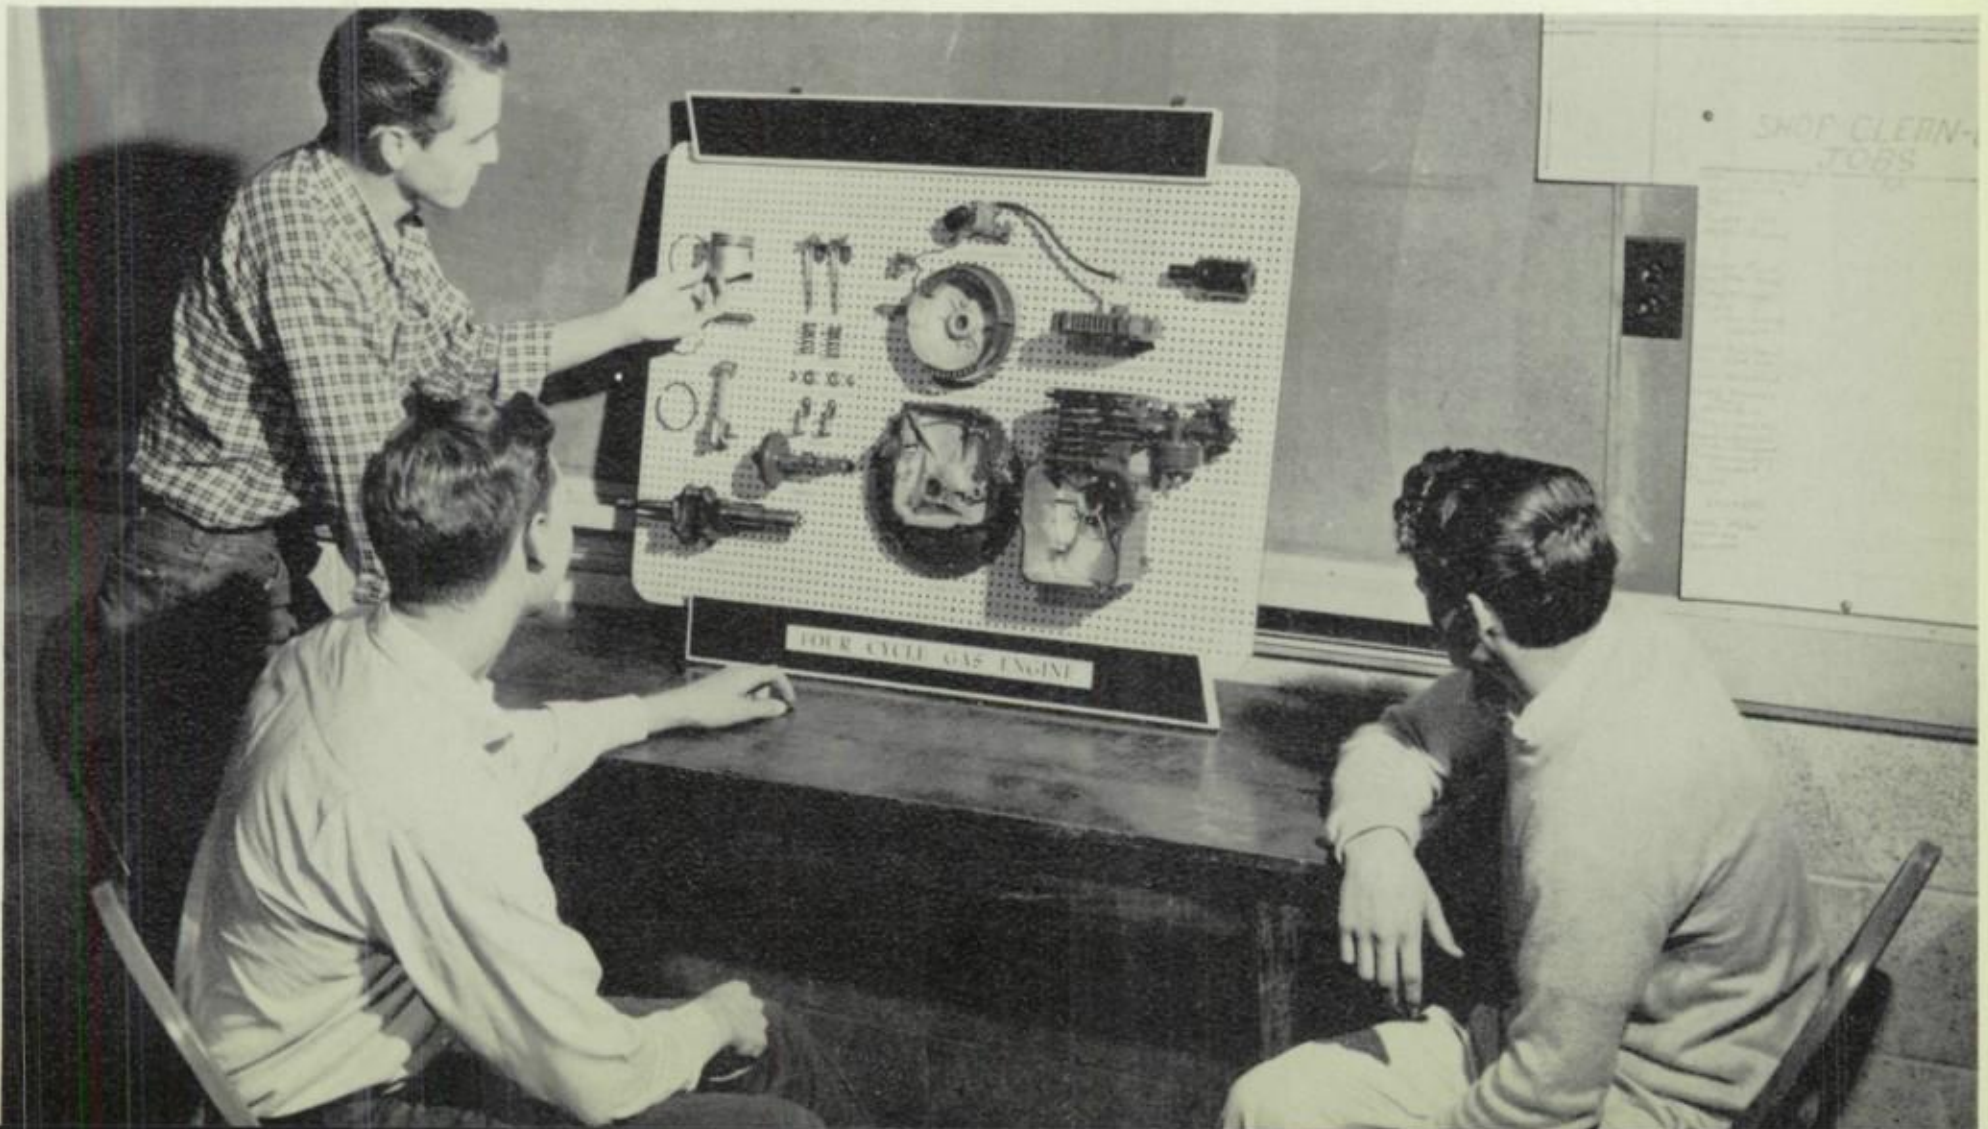

Leroy Crites and John Inhulsen work on their projects in wood shop.

Jerry Eckmyre and Paul Metzger work in the print shop.

Jim Shippee points out to his fellow Agriculture students the working of a four cycle gas engine.

Knowing the arts is an advantage to students in their many scenes they must play.

Constance Jennings, Pat Grace, Pat Gall show the pies they learned to bake in cooking class.

Melba Hofacker and Carolyn Lambert work at the sewing machines as Brooke Kirby cuts out her pattern.

Ron Smith, Dick Hanchett, and Frank Malik take pictures for SPIC in photography class.

Art classes are a great help in keeping the school looking nice. Frank Pirochta, Nancy North, and Bob Selleck work on projects 6th hour.

Social studies and languages are a very important part of high school. Learning about our land and others broadens our students outlook for life.

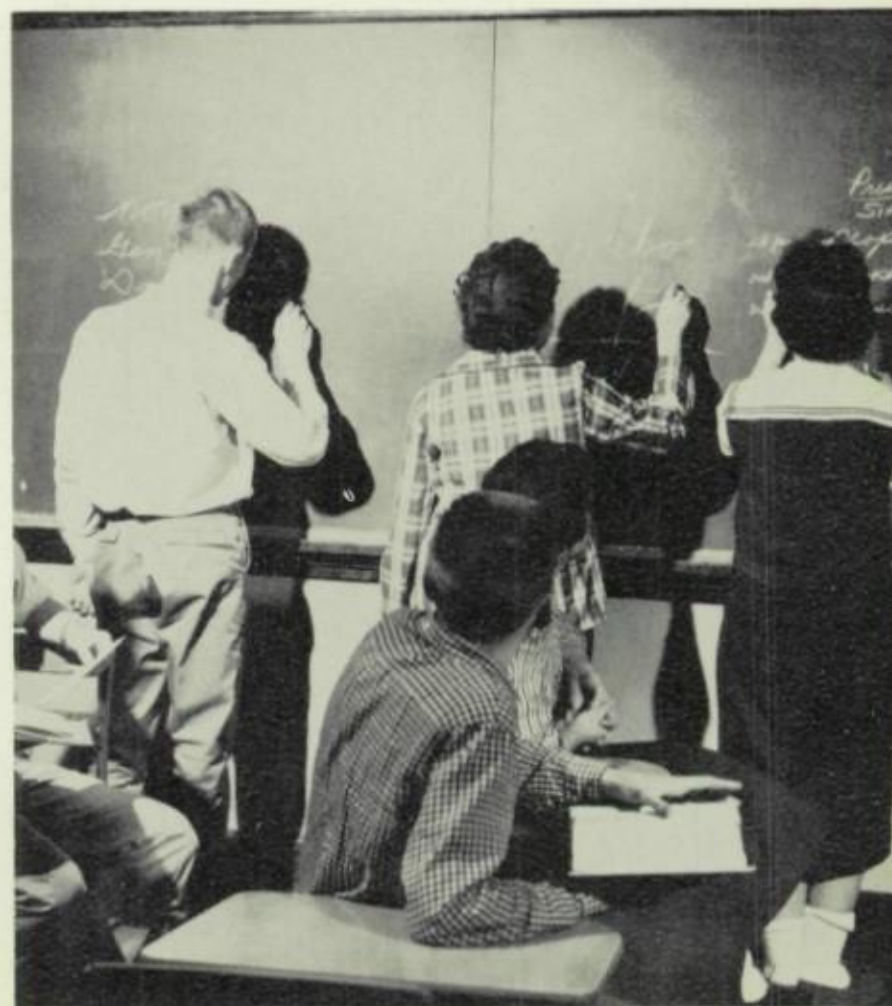

Gerald Schwartz points out an important spot on the map on World History.

Bob Howe shows Myrna Mogg and the rest of the fourth hour government class a diagram of the federal government.

Jim Delaney and Judy Rossell watch the board as the sentences are diagrammed for them.

Conjugating on the board is a familiar exercise for Latin students, Mike Gorte, LuAnn Sundquist, and Jacklyn Sparling show Gary Shumaker and the rest of the class.

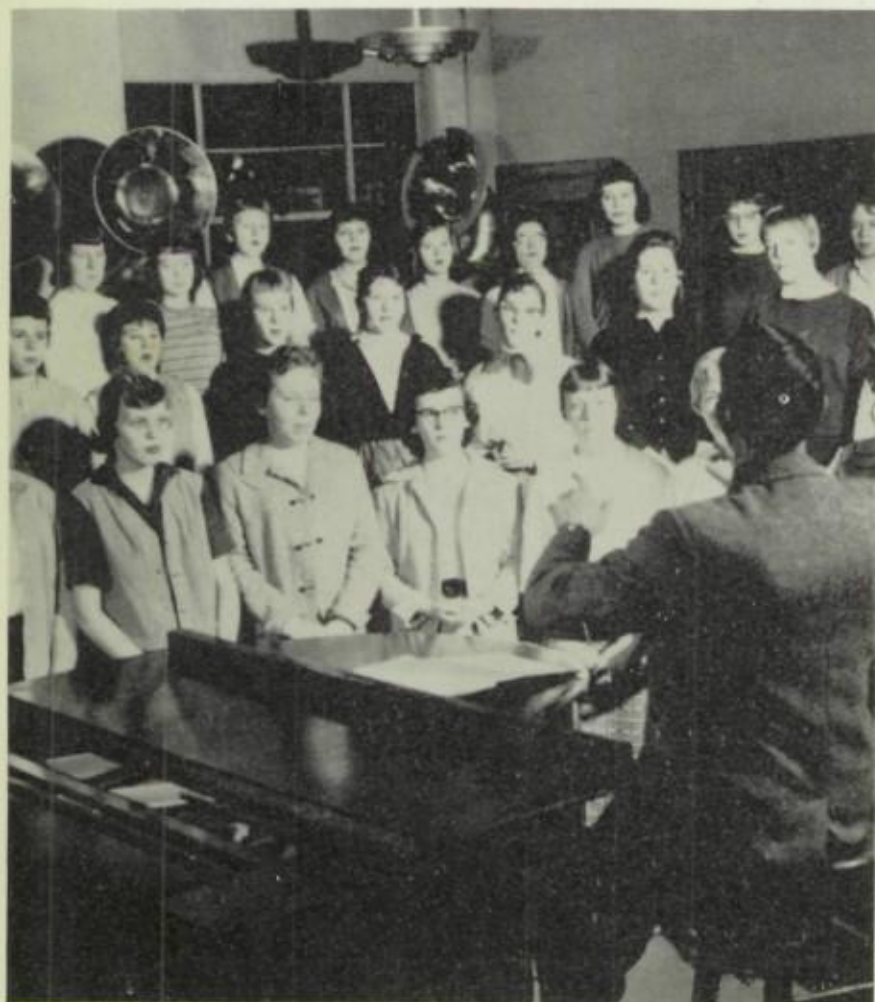

Anyone coming from the Owosso High Commercial Department should be ready to play a starring role in any office.

Karen Gulick and Norma Harris are busy at a timing in class.

Carolyn Davis, Nancy Swanson, and Myrna Mogg work on the business machines fifth hour.

Girls' chorus is the place to hear some sweet voices.

Boys' chorus adds to the musical part of the show.

Physical education classes are a large part of our school program. Girls' and boys' gymnasium classes come three times a week with many varied activities.

Pam Doepker, Sue Mole, and June Hodge try hard for the winning point in a volley ball game in third hour gym.

Future Homemakers of America

Officers of The F. H. A.

One of the active groups in the high school is the F. H. A., for it is here that the girls apply the skills they have learned in home economics. Its emblem—a house supported by hands—symbolizes the future homes of America which are in the hands of its youth. The colors of the organization are red and white; its flower is the red rose symbolizing vibrant, growing health.

The Haystack Quartette sings at the Mother & Daughter Banquet.

Members of the Future Homemakers' Club and their advisor, Mrs. Anderson

Future Farmers of America

There are seventy-five boys in the F.F.A. The motto of the organization is "Learning to Do, and Doing to Learn; Earning to Live, Living to Serve." The purpose of the F.F.A. is to develop leadership, high scholarship, co-operation, and good citizenship among its members.

Robert Sater, Roneil Ackels, and Jack Spittler feed the ducks on the Shiawassee River as one of their service projects.

Officers of The F. F. A.

Members of the Future Farmers' Organization and their advisors, Mr. Dalgleish and Mr. Hill

"O" Club

The "O" Club is composed of boys that have earned their letters in sports. "O" Club advisor is Coach Dingman.

Hi-C Club

The Hi-C is a group of high school students who promote a Christian attitude in daily life. Hi-C Club advisor is Fred Moore.

Ushers' Club

These students assist at various school functions, taking tickets and handing out programs. Ushers' Club advisor is Mildred Sweet.

Junior Classical League

The Junior Classical League is organized to arouse interest in the customs and culture of the Roman people. Mrs. Vera Self is the advisor.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club is made up of students who have or are studying the language. The purpose of the club is to further interest in the language. Miss Bernice Fidler is the advisor.

Debate Team

"Resolved that the U.S. adopt the essential British rules of education" was the question debated this year. Miss Rennie is the coach.

L. to r.: E. Ragland, K. Koerner, J. Anderson, Miss Rennie, coach, M. McCall, P. Pate — members of the team

Vocational Clubs

The Minnie Wells Gebhart Future Teachers' Club promotes interest in the teaching career. The girls go to the different schools, observing the different teaching methods during "exam" time. Club advisors are Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Leitch.

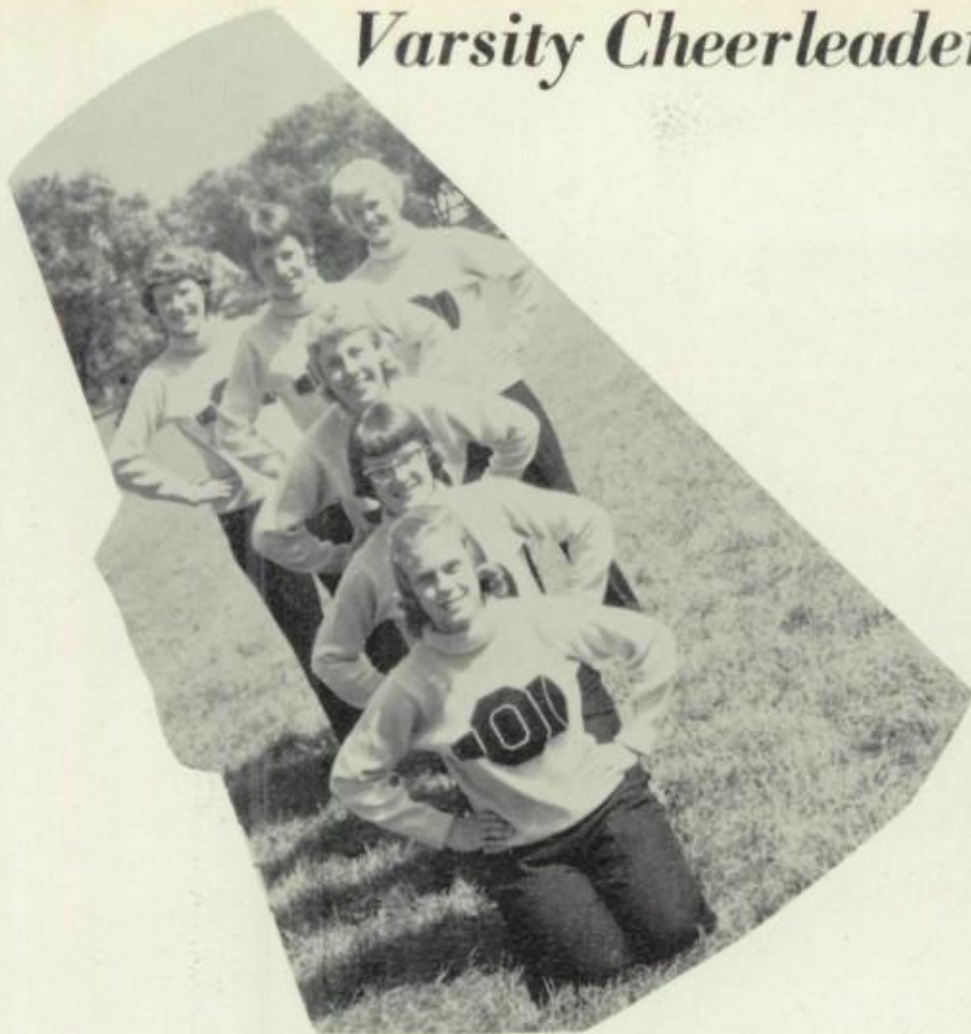

Future Nurses' Club is an organization to promote interest and understanding in nursing. Besides the interesting meetings, the girls work at the hospital from 4 to 6 o'clock every two weeks. Mrs. James Dingman is the club advisor.

Jet's Club helps to acquaint students with the fields of engineering and to encourage them to find out more about the different types of engineering. Mr. Moore is the advisor.

Varsity Cheerleaders

J. V. Cheerleaders

Janice Batteen, Marianne Cromie, Sandy Dickerson, Joan Rassicotte.

Pep Club Officers

Virginia Russell, Carol Johns, Jane Barnum.

Sports

The stage manager runs the back stage life—he operates the lights. Out on the football field the quarterback runs the game—he calls the plays. The direction has been given before the performance by the director—now success of the play lies in the players.

Action Shots

A player from Handy tackles Ed Koch.

Will Handy be able to intercept the pass?

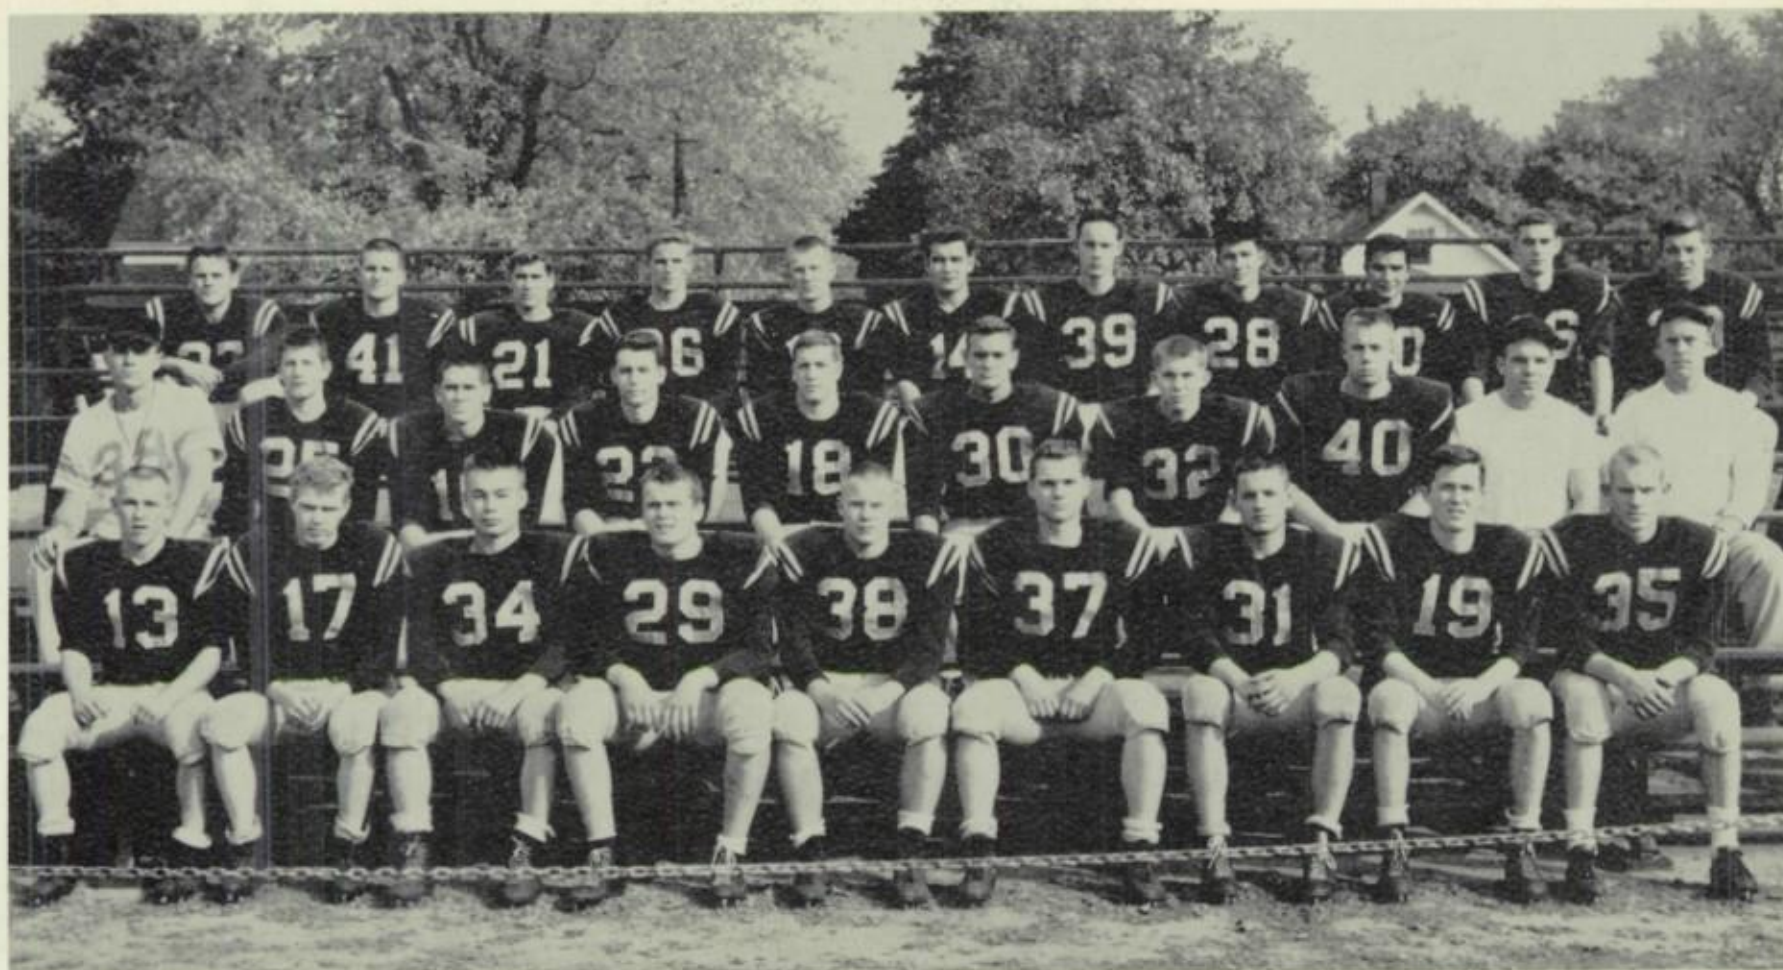

Gorte ready to tackle Alpena.

Hudson is brought down by a Midland player.

ROW I, l. to r.: J. Hudson, R. Chamberlain, G. Ross, D. Savage, T. Mathews, H. Graham, R. Bartos, G. Passmore, R. Hanchett. ROW II, l. to r.: R. Dingman (Coach), J. Mills, M. Hornus, J. Bauer, C. ## Scores

Coach Allen is directing Jeff Hudson and Roger Ackles in wrestling.

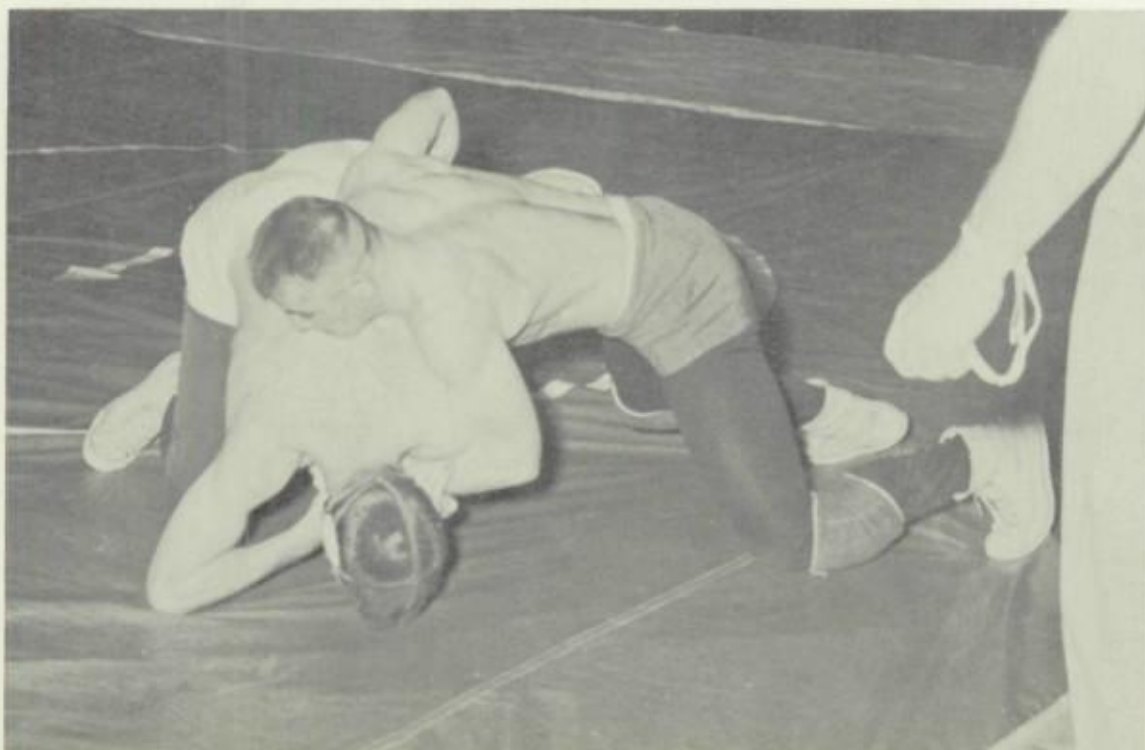

Joe Latsay fights for victory.

Tennis

Coach Bisard

Replacing Mr. Montgomery as tennis coach, William Bisard is no newcomer to Owosso High School. He played tennis on Mr. Montgomery's teams all four years during high school and participated in the State Tournament in his junior year. At Michigan State he played number one doubles for three years, number one singles for two years, and was captain in his senior year.

Coach Bisard instructs Jerry Bauer and Bruce Nash on a few strokes.
